REFUSED $1,500 OFFER

For Pitcher Grover of Maysville Team—St. Louis Browns the Bidder

Fifteen hundred dollars offered and refused for Pitcher Grover of the Maysville team. Three hundred dollars for Pitcher Wellman. Those are the figures which Scout Billy Doyle of the St. Louis Browns offered President Russell of the Maysville Bluegrass Club for the two players.

Grover is a recruit picked up by the Maysville Club months ago, and the speed he has developed in the pitcher's box has attracted the notice of the major leaguers and Scout Doyle has had his eye on him and Wellman for some time.

President Russell realizes that Grover has league stuff in him and refused the $1,500 offer for Grover and $300 for Wellman.

This is the biggest offer ever made for a Bluegrass League player and shows that this league stands close to the major leagues in fast players.

DR. C. TABB PEARCE

To Marry Scottish Lassie—His Second Venture

Sunday's Cincinnati Enquirer—"An announcement of interest is that of the marriage on June 26th of Dr. Charles Taber Pearce and a charming Scottish lassie, Miss Jean Wishart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Wishart, of Strathmore, Kirkaldy, Scotland. Dr. Pearce left last night for New York, whence he sails for the British Isles. He met his fiancee on the journey to the North Cape last year, which he and Mr. J. H. Thurman enjoyed together and later both visited Mr. and Mrs. Wishart at their country seat, Strathmore, where the marriage will take place, Mr. Thurman being Dr. Pearce's best man. Later Dr. Pearce and his bride, after a fortnight in Scotland, will join Mr. and Mrs. Thurman in Cologne, and they will investigate Bavarian Highlands together, returning by the same steamer to the States in September."

Dr. Pearce is a native of this city and is the eldest son of the late Charles Bridges Pearce.

[FOR PRESIDENT,
WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT.]

The Massachusetts Supreme Court pronounces unconstitutional a bill to exempt trade unions from actions of tort.

The total wealth of the world is now estimated at the huge sum of $115,800,000,000, in which the share of the United States is $25,476,000,000.

According to recent compilations of the Canadian labor department, the cost of living in the Dominion shows an average increase of 5 per cent. over the previous year.

According to an address made in Cincinnati recently by Rev. Rutherford, of Brooklyn, he said: "One hundred thousand persons disappear from this world every day, yet all our search has not revealed where they are."

When the import tax was taken off coffee years ago the price to the consumer did not come down and stay down. The only way the price of sugar can be permanently reduced is by producing it more cheaply in our own country. At present our chief supply of domestic cane sugar is produced in Louisiana, while beet sugar production is a flourishing industry in Colorado, California, Michigan, Wisconsin, Utah and Idaho.

A committee of the city-wide congress at Baltimore, which investigated the cost of living, reports that prices have increased for the following reasons: Increased supply of gold price control; tariff; abuse of cold storage; decreased labor on farms; decrease of farming around the city; excessive profits by middlemen; too much handling between producer and consumer; too much purchasing on much advanced prices; growing luxuriosness.

FULL OF YEARS

Mrs. Sally Jackson Cox Goes to Her Reward—Widow of Thornton M. Cox

Mrs. Sally J. Cox departed this life Monday morning at 7 o'clock at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John L. Whitaker, in this city, in her 81st year.

Mrs. Cox was born in Clarke county, Ky., was the second daughter of Samuel G. Jackson, founder and owner of the Red River Iron Works, in that county. Two sisters, Mrs. Ann Nuckles and Mrs. T. T. Crittenden, both of Missouri, and two brothers, Samuel and J. L. Whitaker.

Lewis Jackson, alone remain as the representatives of this old family.

She was the widow of the late Thornton M. Cox and was in her 81st year.

Of her own family she left surviving her four children, Thornton S. Cox of Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. J. L. Whitaker of this city, Mrs. Annie J. Wadsworth and Lizzie M. Thompson of New York.

For a period of about 35 years the deceased had made Maysville her home, residing alternately with her daughters, Mrs. Whitaker and Mrs. Wadsworth, up to within nine or ten years preceding her death, during which time she had been an honored and much beloved member of the family of her son-in-law, Judge J. L. Whitaker.

She endured the pangs of invalidism, as she was accustomed to bear all those hurts and sorrows which inevitably creep into and afflict every human life, with a sublime patience and a meek submission to the Divine will. Indeed, the last three painful years of her life seemed to have drawn out and accentuated many Christian graces, modesty inherent in her character—just as a bruised and broken flower excludes its last and sweetest perfume.

If Mrs. Cox possessed one attribute which predominated over all others in the summation of her admirable di posito, it was the charm and grace of motherhood, which budded, expanded and flowered up in every young thing that came within the radius of her influence and affection.

Motherhood is a comprehensive noun and includes a perfect diadem of virtues as an integer, but, standing out in characteristic prominence in the moral life of Mrs. Cox, was the grace of self repression, as distinguished from mere self-deceit, which implies personal advantage. She was, in the highest and most significant sense, an exponent of that real charity, which—

"Saffereb long and is kind—endureb not;" which "Bearith all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things."

So, all through that part of her life coming within the writer's intimate knowledge of this mild, motherly woman, went her quiet ways, dropping pure pearls of kindness in the pathway of her friends.

Her gentle influence; her pure, unselfish example; her Christian life, will cause our thoughts, in tenderest remembrance to follow

The young mother—and many an old one, too—is often puzzled to know the cause of her child's ill health. The loudest of its complaints are perhaps due to obstruction of the bowels, and once that is removed, the child becomes more active, less sluggish and the many other evidences of constipation and indigestion will quickly disappear.

Don't give the little ones salts, cathartics, or emetics, for these will act as purgatives, and they are too strong for a child. In the families of Mrs. M. S. Adams, Auburn, Ky., and Mrs. L. M. Boyce, Tip Top, Ky., the only laxative given is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It has been found to answer most perfectly all the purposes of a laxative, and its very mildness and freedom from griping recommend it especially for the use of children, women, and old folks, generally—people who need a gentle bowel movement.

Any one wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it, may do so by sending a draft for fifteen cents or one dollar for a large bottle (family size) and receive a sample bottle sent to the home free. Dr. Caldwell, 409 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

you will.

Most manufacturers take for granted you won't think of this before you buy a car. Then they've got you. But Studebaker says, "Find out now." Because the Studebaker maxim is—a square deal for every owner.

We guarantee E-M-F "30" and Flanders "20" cars four times as long as most manufacturers, and then sell you parts at prices lower proportionately than any other manufacturer in the world.

Child Nappers

It is a rather useless citizen who has no one for the children and their play, and we are with the Illinois editor who wrote when his City Council passed an ordinance prohibiting roller skating on cement sidewalks:

There is something out of gear in the heart of man or woman who has a parlor 'parlor' nice for little ones to play in or who would not with joy give right of way on a sidewalk in our uncrowded smaller cities to little ones with their roller skates or coasting carts.

People thus easily annoyed by little kids will literally have a 'hell of a time' in heaven, crowded to the pearly gates with children."

If the community is not modern enough to supply the children of the congested districts with grounds where they can play without enddangering life and limb, like we do here in Maysville by all means give them the only playground they can have—the streets and the sidewalks.

Stanton's Portrait Unveiled

The portrait of the late Henry T. Stanton, poet laureate of Kentucky, was unveiled at Frankfort Friday by his granddaughter, Miss Margarette McLean of Louisville.

The unveiling of the portrait took place in the rooms of the Historical Society at the Capitol, the meeting being presided over by Governor McCreary.

With it all he was handsome, had charm of manner—when he cared to—and was a slave (as well as master) to fashion. These qualities won him the title of "First Gentleman of Europe."
His sayings, his dress, his manners were copied by the "fast set," and his approving nod was coveted by social climbers. Though he was often kindly in a careless sort of way, when it cost him nothing, yet there is perhaps no case known where he sacrificed his own comfort or pleasure for any one.

His first political act was to join his father's enemies in parliament.

In return for his support these politicians tried to raise George's yearly allowance from $250,000 to $500,000.

His father, George III., refused to allow this. And father and son grew to hate each other. The prince proceeded to run deep into debt and to marry Mrs. Flizherber. As crown prince of England he had no right to marry without his father's consent. When he was brought to account for it he calmly denied the marriage and lured an unsuspecting friend (the statesman, Fox) into publicly backing the marriage.

More and more money he got from parliament as time went on. But every penny of it went into gambling or for other low purposes. He was forever in debt. His father went insane, partly because of his son's behavior. George amused his cronies by mimicking the crazy king's ravings. Then in 1795, during a lucid interval, King George III. offered to pay the prince's debts if he would marry the Princess Caroline of Brus-wick. George consented.

The marriage was most unhappy.

Caroline was frivolous and eccentric.

George was brutal and neglectful.

They separated after the birth of their only child, the Princess Charlotte (who died in 1817). George then maliciously accused his wife of unfaith-fulness and of other crimes. Though the court acquitted her, yet her reputation was wrecked.

George meantime had deserted his old friends and contracted new debts.

His father's insanity became permanent.

And George was made regent of Great Britain.

His vice life then grew more and more a public scandal.

By the time his father died in 1820 and the prince mounted the British throne as King George IV., the people hated him.

He was hissed in the public streets. Once his carriage was stoned. An attempt was also made to murder him. He did little for his country, caring for politics only as a means to get more gambling money for himself.

He won a momentary popularity by visiting Ireland in 1821 and Scotland in 1822. He was the first British king to set foot in Scotland for 172 years and he was gladly received.

(Sir Walter Scott, the great writer, was so proud of the monarch's visit that he begged leave to keep forever

the glass out of which George took his first drink on Scotch soil. George gave him the glass. Scott put it in his coat tail pocket for safe keeping;

then, forgetfully, sat down on it.)

In 1830, at the age of sixty-seven,

George IV. died. Bad as he was and hated by decent people, England had fLOURISHED mightily during his reign.

But the land's prosperity was accomplished in spite of its king, not through any effort of his.

Worthless George IV. had unconsciously taught England an immortal lesson; namely, that a king is largely a figurehead and that a country's greatness depends not on him, but it may be exactly what you need.

NATURE'S ESSENCE... Extracted From Forest Plants.

Nature's laws are perfect, but disease follows if these laws are not obeyed. Go straight to nature for the cure, to the forest; there are mysteries here that we can learn from you. Take the bark of the wild-cherry tree, the root of mandrake, stone, Oregon grape root, queen's root, bloodroot and golden seal, make a scientific, non-alcoholic extract of them with just the right proportions and you have

DOCTOR PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

It took Dr. Pierce, with the assistance of two learned chemists, eight years of hard work experimenting to make this pure glycerin extract and alterative of the greatest efficiency and without the use of a particle of alcohol.

Just the sort of remedy you need to make rich, red blood, and cure that lassitude and feeling of nervous exhaustion. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery bears the stamp of PUBLIC APPROVAL and has sold more largely in the past forty years than any other blood purifier and stomach tonic.

"Some time ago I got out of health—my stomach seemed to be the seat of the trouble," writes Mr. William K. Campbell, a physician and specialist on stomach and digestive organs. "None seemed to do any good—in fact, most of the medicines did me harm. Finally, I wrote to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., who recommended his Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets.' The 'Discovery' and 'Pellets,' have put me on my feet again—seemed to be just what I needed. I could not have recovered without them."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are for Liver Ills.
